I seldom take articles written by others and paste them into our bulletin. This is not because I think my articles are better, but because I have always attempted to use the bulletin article as another means of outreach for my ministry. Many good points and ideas have been set aside as a result. But occasionally I'll deviate from my pattern, and this is one of those times.

I've known Rick Laing for more than thirty years and can gladly recommend him and his preaching to anyone. What follows is a very concise analysis of Paul's message to Philemon and some practical applications every parent needs to employ. DC

A LESSON IN HOW TO HANDLE A TRICKY SITUATION

When Paul wrote to Philemon, he was addressing a difficult situation. Philemon's slave had run away, found Paul, and was obviously baptized into Christ (Philemon 1:10-16). Paul sent the slave (Onesimus) back to Philemon with the letter. How did Paul handle this tricky situation?

1. He recalls all the good things they have in common in Christ. He mentions comfort and commends Philemon (Phil 1:7).
2. He expresses confidence in Christ that he has the right to command Philemon to do what is proper (Phil 1:8).
3. He instead calls upon Philemon for love's sake (Phil 1:9). The word "appeal" is a good translation from "parakaleo," to call to one's side.

So, if you are dealing with a son or daughter, remember these three things:

1. Recall the good things.
2. Express confidence in your right to command.
3. Call them to your side; figuratively and literally, put your arm around them.

Sincerely, Rick Laing

The church office will be closed from December 23, 2013, to January 6, 2014. Service assignments will be published in the foyer.

Please sign up for 2014 communion preparation and sound & projector duties. The sign-up sheets are on the bulletin board in the foyer. Thanks.

YOUTH EVENTS

December 29, 2013

Invite someone to be your guest and to stay for a great meal!

Friends

Family Day

My love and prayers to all at Pearland Church of Christ. May God bless you all for all the wonderful fellowships and cards we have shared. I miss all there and hope all have a very blessed Christmas and the coming year. I thank all for the cards of encouragement through the year past.

My love to all,
Evelyn Cordell

To all our members who have been the focus of our 1st-3rd grade Wednesday night class, we have been praying for you and discussing how much you mean to us. We want you to feel special, loved, and thought of often. Our class has remembered you once again by making Christmas cards for you. The cards are hung on the trees in the foyer. Please find yours and know that we love and care about you.
