THOSE SERVING 4

Most Bible-professing Protestants are quite shocked when they eventually discover that “Easter” isn’t even in the Bible. It is never found in any of the more modern, literal, dependable translations and actually only occurs once in the King James version (Acts 12:4), wherein the word is a 1611 substitution for the original Greek word “pascha,” a word which even that very same version correctly translates as “Passover” in every other verse wherein it occurs.

Additionally, that same passage (Acts 12:1-4) states that this was during the “days of unleavened bread” (verse 3), a Jewish celebration intimately linked with the Passover. King Herod, in an effort to please the Jews (verse 3), was waiting to kill the apostle Peter until after “pascha.” In his attempts to persecute the Lord’s church and please the antagonistic Jewish leadership, he was certainly not delaying Peter’s execution in support of a Christian celebration, but was instead honoring the Jewish celebration of “pascha” (the Passover) by waiting until it was over to present Peter to the otherwise-occupied Jewish celebrants of Passover—not Easter. Even the New King James translators themselves corrected the previous 1611 version’s “Easter” error by correctly placing “Passover” back in Acts 12:4. Hence, “Easter” is not legitimately ever found in the Bible, the word of God.

Most of today’s “Easter” celebrations are actually of pagan origin, having originally been a celebration of the pagan goddess of fertility, “Eastre” (origin of “estrogen?”)—hence, the very popular fertility symbols of eggs, bunnies, and, yes, what would’ve been the absolute darling of Darwin’s deluded and God-denying evolutionary dreams: the genetically-confused and corrupted crossover, the egg-laying bunny—he which millions of Biblically-unaware Protestants unknowingly purchase, perpetuate, and participate in distributing each spring.

Furthermore, few are additionally aware that the early Constantine Catholic Church was completely responsible for seeking to re-create this then-pagan celebration into its own image centuries after Christ and His apostles walked the earth and delivered God’s Word. These “Eastre” facts are easily obtainable from countless encyclopedic resources, but obviously not from God’s Word, as “Easter” and its modern-day celebratory events simply do not exist therein.

Jesus told His true disciples (John 8:31-47) precisely how He wanted them to remember Him instead (Luke 22:14-20), which is exactly what His church specifically comes together to do, “on the first day of the week” (Acts 20:7; 1 Corinthians 11:23-26)—this, in accordance with His commandment, simply because they love Him alone and above everyone and everything else on earth (John 14:15-24; Matthew 10:34-39, 22:37).

But Bible-professing Protestants who sincerely desire to honor God’s Word need to beware that “Easter,” as they know and may celebrate it, simply isn’t there in the word of God because it was apparently never in the mind of God for mankind to do (II Timothy 3:16-4:4) and, in fact, has absolutely nothing in common with how the Savior Himself exclusively commanded His disciples to specifically remember Him (Luke 22:14-20; 6:46).

Instead, “Easter” is ultimately, intimately, and purely the product of corruptly combined paganism, Catholicism, and commercialism. But please don’t take our word for it—just try to legitimately find our “Easter” in God’s Word instead (You’ll find that it’s harder to find than a legitimate, real-life, genetically-confused, chocolate egg-laying bunny!).
